MISSING PERSONS ACT–FORMS (English and French)	9

REASON FOR POLICY:

To establish guidelines for the receipt of and response to all reports of missing or lost persons including a thorough and complete investigation into their disappearance.

POLICY

- A. For all missing or lost person investigations nothing shall be assumed and everything shall be verified.
- B. It is paramount that the first consideration in a missing or lost person investigation is the well being of the subject. Early intervention in all missing or lost person cases will assist the investigator and conversely any delay will only complicate the location effort.
- C. It is important that officers are aware of the emergent nature of this type of investigation and are conscious of the trauma and crisis experienced by the family and/or friends of the missing or lost person.
- D. Immediate action is crucial in the deliverance of an appropriate and effective police response.
- E. The roles of the complaint taker and the initial responding officer are critical in establishing the circumstances surrounding those missing or lost persons at risk.
- F. Reports of missing or lost persons shall be given full consideration and attention including careful recording and investigation of factual circumstances surrounding the disappearance.
- G. Particular care shall be exercised in instances involving missing or lost children and those vulnerable adults who may be mentally or physically impaired or others who are insufficiently prepared to take care of themselves.
- H. Any report of a missing or lost child shall be considered urgent for the purposes of a ground search. In instances where the complaint indicates that a child is missing, a description of the child shall be broadcasted immediately on the police communication system, to benefit the responding officer and to advise other police forces in the vicinity. Consideration shall also be made to activating an AMBER Alert.
- I. Where police records indicate that a child has run away in the past and there are indicators to suggest that this could happen again, the primary investigator shall conduct an extensive interview with the child after they have been located. This pro-active approach may provide useful information relating to the child's associates and likely destinations. It may also provide insight regarding the reason why the child left home. Investigators must be cognizant that a child may give a reason which requires the additional involvement of a child protection agency or the use of other referral agencies to assist the family in coping with this issue.

J. Definitions:

- ABDUCTION: For the purpose of an AMBER Alert abduction means an incident where a child under the age of eighteen (18) years or an individual with a proven mental or physical disability is illegally removed from their environment.
- ADULT: For the purposes of this policy and as defined under Section 1(1) of the Age of Majority Act means a person who has reached nineteen years of age.
- AMBER ALERT: Operational Manual 9.1, defines AMBER Alert as a province-wide innovative program which partners the Province's law enforcement community, media broadcasting agencies and the public in locating an abducted child or an individual with a proven mental or physical disability and it is believed that their life could be in imminent danger.
- CHILD: As defined under the Age of Majority Act means a person actually or apparently less than nineteen years of age.
- LOST PERSON: A person is considered lost when their whereabouts may be in a known area (defined geographic location). A lost person is always missing; however, a missing person is not always lost.
- MISSING PERSON: A person is considered missing when their whereabouts is not known.
- RMS: Police Records Management System.
- SEARCH MASTER: Supervisor in charge of a trained search and rescue team.

PROCEDURES

7. ACCEPTING A MISSING OR LOST PERSON REPORT:

- A. It is recognized that occasionally police records may display that a reported missing or lost person has demonstrated a repeat in pattern of being missing (i.e., child runs away from home a number of times or Alzheimer patient consistently wanders from care giver). It is imperative that this pattern is not used to negate the urgency and consistency of police response moreover, this pattern should be used to aid in the investigation by leading police to locations previously frequented by the missing or lost person.
- B. At any time during the investigation of a missing or lost person occurrence where foul play or misadventure is suspected, the investigating officer will notify Investigation Unit and secure the scene.
- C. All reports of missing or lost persons whether or not the occurrence is within the police jurisdiction will be accepted and recorded.
- D. The police force of jurisdiction will be defined as police force having jurisdiction of the area where the person was last seen.
- E. Where there is doubt as to jurisdiction, the police force taking the initial report will undertake the investigation until a determination is made as to the proper jurisdiction.

- F. Upon receipt of a missing person report involving children, elderly, intellectually challenged or infirm persons, a broadcast of the missing person's description will be made through the police communication system immediately.
- G. Upon determining that the jurisdiction is your force's jurisdiction, immediately dispatch an officer to interview the complainant.
- H. Where the police force does not have jurisdiction in a missing or lost person occurrence, the police force of jurisdiction is contacted immediately and provided with the details of the complaint.
- I. As soon as the police force with jurisdiction is contacted, get in touch with the complainant and provide the name and telephone number of the responding police force/investigating officer.
- J. In accordance with the CPIC directive, when the missing person does not reside within the jurisdiction of the police force receiving the report, the receiving force will:
 - a. Initially enter the name of the missing person on CPIC;
 - b. Forward a copy of the documentation related to the report to the force where the person normally resides;
 - c. Upon receipt of this documentation, the police force where the person normally resides will make an entry on the CPIC system in the missing person category and will assume responsibility for the entry;
 - d. Where a request is received from a non-Canadian source and entered on the system, the police force making the entry will be responsible for maintaining the record;

Note: The police forces involved will coordinate the investigation as circumstances dictate and the originating force will remove its entry from the CPIC system.

- K. Request complainants residing outside of Canada to direct their enquiry to the local accredited police force in their country.
- L. Ensure investigations conducted on behalf of foreign forces include a record check of the missing person's name and particulars completed through Interpol to ensure a duplicate investigation does not take place.

2. FIRST OFFICER/INVESTIGATOR AT THE SCENE:

- A. Circumstances will always determine the management of any investigation. Although the suggested steps follow a sequence, in reality many will take place simultaneously and out of the presented order. This is to be expected as responses will vary with the particulars of each case; however, the initial response is crucial.
- B. The first officer/investigator responding to a report of a missing or lost person will:
 - a. Immediately attend the complainant's location;
 - b. Interview the complainant in person and take a detailed statement;
 - c. Verify there is a missing or lost person;
 - d. Assess the person reporting the event in the event foul play is suspected;

- e. Obtain a full description of the missing or lost person including: recent photograph, physical appearance, clothing last worn, health concerns, last place seen, last person in contact with, what may have triggered the person to become missing or lost;
- f. Determine the urgency of a search;
- g. Recognize that if any one factor could cause the death of the missing or lost person a search is urgent;
- h. Where applicable, conduct a consent search of the residence (specifically the bedroom of missing or lost person) and outbuildings;
- i. If any information from the complainant on initial contact/search indicates a factor which could cause death of the missing or lost person follow force guidelines for requesting:
 - i. An AMBER Alert in the case of abducted children or vulnerable adults,
 - ii. An immediate search for lost Alzheimer's patients utilizing the CPIC Wandering Person Registry and Alzheimer Society's Search Is An Emergency procedures or,
 - iii. If foul play is suspected protect the scene and request the assistance of other force resources;
- j. Inform your supervisor of the actions taken and request appropriate assistance and request that a detailed description of the missing or lost person be broadcast through police force communications system and entered on CPIC. Ensure that a CPIC query is conducted to ascertain if subject is avoiding judicial process;
- k. Prior to end of shift, ensure all case reports are updated on the police force RMS along with any CPIC messages;
- l. Report all occurrences of parental/non-parental abductions pursuant to the Violent Crime Linkage Analysis System (ViCLAS) guidelines;
- m. If a missing or lost person is not located prior to end of shift, request that your immediate supervisor assign investigators from the following shifts; and
- n. Ensure the complainant is kept up-to-date on the status of the investigation.

3. SUPERVISOR:

- A. The immediate supervisor will:
 - a. Consult with the officer/investigator at the scene;
 - b. Ensure that an investigator is assigned to the file (if not the first officer at the scene) to maintain continuity of the investigation, constant monitoring of file and contact with the missing or lost person's family on a regular basis;
 - c. Brief the Chief of Police or designate;
 - d. Activate an AMBER Alert where the established criteria is met as per Operational Manual Chapter 9.1 and that broadcasts are made to other police forces in the area;
 - e. If the services of ground search and rescue, underwater recovery, police dog services or other local search groups are needed, ensure that these needs are met and their progress monitored;

- f. Ensure that the search master from the Ground Search and/or Rescue/Underwater Recovery Team takes charge of the search efforts;
- g. Review reports and to ensure CPIC entries, Wandering Persons Registry, Missing Children's Registry, New Brunswick Child Find and other applicable registries are entered and regularly updated and reports placed on the police force RMS;
- h. Contact the Investigation Unit and provide what ever assistance may be necessary should a criminal offence be suspected;
- i. Ensure that reports of parental/non-parental abductions are reported on the Violent Crime Linkage Analysis System (ViCLAS);
- j. Ensure that the officers on subsequent shifts are fully briefed on the investigation file; and
- k. Select an investigator from following shifts to carry on investigation.

4. LOCATED MISSING OR LOST PERSONS:

- A. Officers/investigators will:
 - a. Ensure the health and safety of found missing or lost persons;
 - b. Comply with the wishes of adult persons who do not wish to be returned to the complainant, providing they are mentally competent;
 - c. Encourage located adult persons to contact the complainant to ease the complainant's concerns. If the adult person refuses to contact the complainant, advise the complainant that the adult person was found and their state of well-being. Do not disclose their whereabouts if the found person has not given permission to do so;
 - d. Notify the complainant or next-of-kin where a senior, adult person with mental or physical disabilities is located with obvious welfare/safety concerns (obviously unable to care for themselves). If the complainant or next-of-kin can not be located contact the Family and Community Services;
 - e. Where a child is located, interview the child to determine their reason for being missing or lost. If there is no reason to believe harm will come to the child contact the complainant or next-of-kin to arrange for return;
 - f. Advise the complainant or next-of-kin that it is their responsibility to arrange for the return of the found missing or lost person. There may be special circumstances where it might be in the best interests of the police to arrange for the return of located persons;
 - g. Interview a frequent runaway child after they have been located to determine why this child left their parent or guardian. If after the interview you feel harm may come to the child if returned to the parent or guardian contact the Family and Community Services to arrange for a place of safety for the child;
 - h. Where evidence exists proceed with a criminal investigation;
 - i. After verification of the location of a missing or lost person ensure that all police personnel are notified of the return, all CPIC messages, broadcasts, media releases, e-mails and requests to other police forces are cancelled, photographs are returned and all reports, CPIC messages are placed on the RMS; and

- j. Debrief with assisting agencies the events in the investigation which would lead to better practices or eliminate problems encountered during the investigation. The results of debriefing sessions are beneficial for information sharing of best practices and recognition of areas that may require improvement.

5. UNLOCATED MISSING OR LOST PERSONS:

- A. The police force of jurisdiction will review missing or lost person's cases in a timely fashion as per the direction of the Chief of Police or designate after a reasonable amount of time has passed since the commencement of the investigation.
- B. The review should be conducted by the Chief of Police or designate so that appropriate action can be taken to further the investigation.
- C. The Chief of Police or designate will ensure the investigation is continuously reassigned to keep the case active until completion.
- D. Debrief with assisting agencies to ensure all avenues of investigation are complete. The results of debriefing sessions are beneficial for information sharing of best practices and recognition of areas that require improvement.

6. CONTINUED INVESTIGATIONS:

- B. Although many of the following investigative steps may have been completed in the initial response, the following are additional steps the investigator should complete if applicable:
 - a. Interview and take a written statement from the last person to see or have contact with the missing or lost person. It is critical this is done as soon as possible after the original report is made;
 - b. Re-interview the complainant to ascertain if they recall any new information;
 - c. Interview family members, neighbours, friends, co-workers, teachers and classmates;
 - d. Search the school locker with proper consent or legal authority;
 - e. Check on forms of communication used by missing or lost persons such as: computers, e-mail, internet chat lines, computer history files, answering machines, voicemail, last number dialed, call display, cell phone (text messaging), pager usage and calling cards;
 - f. Check banking information, credit/debit card use, account activity and ATM security photos;
 - g. Establish individual identifiers such as recent photographs, blood group and type, sample of hand writing, finger/palm prints, dental records, x-rays and DNA sample sources;
 - h. Determine the circumstances surrounding the missing or lost person's disappearance such as financial problems pending trials, fear of physical harm and previous disappearances;
 - i. Interview friends and acquaintances, where necessary search premises by consent or legal authority;

- j. Continue police broadcasts, check local records and CPIC to see if anything new develops;
- k. Check shelters, hospitals, malls, 24-hour outlets;
- l. Check with Alzheimer's Society, Wandering Persons Registry, Missing Children's Registry, New Brunswick Child Find and Family and Community Services;
- m. Consider house to house canvassing;
- n. Consider a media release with help of the police Media Relations Officer if available; and
- o. Enter additional details on CPIC such as updated description, biological evidence, dental charts, finger/palm prints and other such personal identifiers prior to conclusion.

7. RETENTION/FILING OF REPORT:

- A. The complete investigation file will be retained in accordance with the RMS file retention schedule and will consist of, but not limited to:
 - a. Original and all supplementary investigative reports,
 - b. Original statements,
 - c. Officer's notes,
 - d. Media reports,
 - e. Missing person identifiers (photographs, dental records, x-rays, biological samples for DNA profiling, fingerprints and palm prints),
 - f. Ground Search and Rescue documents, and
 - g. CPIC messages.
